Account Recovery Enrollment

A series of light gray, wavy, horizontal lines that create a sense of motion and depth, filling the lower half of the page.

Account Recovery Enrollment

In order for members to be eligible for account recovery, they must be enrolled in the program. Enrollment triggers the key exchange that makes account recovery secure. There are two ways for members to be enrolled:

- Automatic enrollment: When you turn on the Account recovery administration policy, you can also turn on the option Require new members to be enrolled automatically. This option will enroll new members in account recovery automatically.
- Self-enrollment: Organization members can follow a quick process to enroll themselves in account recovery.

Tip

Bitwarden recommends turning on automatic enrollment, however members that are already part of your organization prior to account recovery being turned on will be required to self-enroll.

Automatic enrollment

Turning on the option to Require new members to be enrolled automatically will:

- Enroll new members in account recovery automatically when they enter an accepted status.
- Prevent them from withdrawing from account recovery.

Note

Wenn Sie Mitglieder der Organisation automatisch für die Kontowiederherstellung registrieren, empfehlen wir dringend, sie über diese Funktion zu informieren. Viele Bitwarden-Organisationsbenutzer speichern persönliche Anmeldedaten in ihrem individuellen Tresor und sollten darauf hingewiesen werden, dass die Wiederherstellung des Kontos einem Administrator den Zugriff auf ihre individuellen Tresordaten ermöglichen könnte.

Self-enrollment

Members that are already part of your organization prior to account recovery being turned on if you're using automatic enrollment, or all users if you're not using automatic enrollment, will be required to self-enroll.

To enroll in account recovery, select the  Options menu next to the organization in the Vaults view and select Enroll in account recovery:

The screenshot shows the Bitwarden web interface. On the left is a blue sidebar with the 'Password Manager' header and a 'Vaults' section containing 'Send', 'Tools', 'Reports', and 'Settings'. The main area is titled 'All vaults' and includes a search bar, a list of vaults ('All vaults', 'My vault', 'My Organization'), and a list of items ('All items', 'Favorites'). A red circle highlights the 'Enroll in account recovery' option in the 'My Organization' vault list. Below the sidebar, the text 'Für Kontowiederherstellung registrieren' is displayed.

Withdraw enrollment

Members of organizations that have turned on the automatic enrollment option will not be allowed to withdraw from account recovery, however members of organizations that have not turned it on can Withdraw from the same dropdown used to enroll:

This screenshot is similar to the one above, showing the 'All vaults' page. However, the red circle now highlights the 'Withdraw from account recovery' option in the 'My Organization' vault list. Below the sidebar, the text 'Von Kontowiederherstellung abmelden' is displayed.

Manually changing your master password or rotating an encryption key will not withdraw a member from account recovery.
